

PRESS RELEASE*DATE: October 2015*With Franke's new Omni 4-in-1 tap you get filtered 100°C boiling, filtered cold and mains hot and cold at the turn of a lever

The new Omni tap from Franke is the new must-have purchase for your kitchen. With its timeless design and premium hi-shine solid stainless steel construction, this gleaming beauty gives you the multiple benefits of full 100°C filtered boiling, filtered cold water and standard mains hot and cold from the simple operation of two levers.

The filter system gives you perfect tasting water for your hot drinks and means no need for expensive bottled water. Changing the filter is as easy as changing a light bulb and an LED will tell you when you need to, after approximately six to nine months. It will also dispense eight cups of boiling water at a cost of a penny a cup or fill two large pans when you want to get a meal underway. Its triple safety action with optional child clip to prevent accidental operation, plus the cool-touch chassis, mean the tap is very safe to use. And you have peace of mind of a three year guarantee.

If you're thinking of buying a boiling water tap, check this one out first and have a look at the video at www.franke.co.uk/omni. With its in-built filtration it's got a lot more to offer for the money. Retail price is £1,349 inc VAT. Available from kitchen retailers nationwide.

Steve Rutter, Marketing Operations Manager at Franke comments

"We know from our research that consumers value products that are genuinely lifestyle enhancing and Omni means they can have the best of both worlds with combined filtration and boiling water functions. Omni includes many patented features and moves tap innovation and technology on to the next level with exceptional functionality, but at a very attractive price point. The additional benefit of filtration is available for not much more money than current models of boiling water taps, and compared to other 4-in-1 options it can be up to 50% cheaper."
